

VENICE GALLERY WEEKEND 2025

PRESS RELEASE

The galleries of Venice, part of the Venice Galleries View association are pleased to announce the Venice Gallery Weekend, which will take place in the weekend of the 21st - 23rd of March 2025. The three-day event will feature a diverse programme of previews, talks, and special events promoted and hosted by the participating galleries.

Founded in 2018, VGV has grown over the years welcoming new galleries and becoming increasingly active in Venice's art system. The association has previously organised shared city-wide initiatives, however the Venice Gallery Weekend marks an exciting new phase. Today, VGV brings together seventeen galleries focusing on contemporary art research and the primary market, with the goal of attracting an international audience and promoting the city's cultural life - an ecosystem that extends beyond the physical and temporal boundaries of the Biennale. The Venetian galleries are relaunching the Gallery Weekend following recent changes in the local cultural landscape, shaped by the opening of new institutions and the establishment of international galleries' branch locations. This event marks a moment of transformation for the city, in which an increasing number of people including art lovers from around the world choose Venice as an ideal place to not only to visit but to live, in turn contributing to its culture and economy.

Our initiative is planned outside of the Biennale period to spotlight Venice's thriving contemporary art scene and the rich cultural programmes available in the city throughout the year. Alongside major foreign institutions and network of local commercial galleries, independent spaces, artist studios, foundations and more exists which consistently carry out significant work in the research and promotion of art.

The Venice Gallery Weekend offers the public an opportunity to discover a wide range of galleries that make up the VGV association. Through a dynamic programme of events which many artists will be attending we hope to give the public the opportunity to directly engage with their work.
